which the interests of all parties depend.

XXII. Successful industry is especially necessary at the present time, when large public debis and oncross taxes are imposed to maintain and protect the libertles of the people and the integrity of the Union. All officers, civil or military, and all classes of citizens who assist in extending the profits of labor, and increasing the product of the soil, upon which, in the end, all national prosperity and power depend, will render to the Government a service as great as that derived from the terrible secrifices of battle.

It is upon such consideration only that the planter is entitled to favor. The Government has accorded to him, in a peril of anarchy, a release from the disorders resulting mainly from insensate and mad resistance to sensible reforms, which can never be rejected without revolution and the criminal surrender of his interests and power to erazy politicians, who thought by metaphysical abstractions to circumvent the laws of God. It has restored to him in improved rather than impaired in condition his due privileges, at a moment when, by his own acts, the very soil was washed from beneath his feet.

XXIII. A more unjestic and wise elemency human.

XVIII. The transportation of negro families to other countries will not be approved. All propositions for this privilege have been declined, and application has been made to other Departments for surplus negro families in this Department.

XIX. The last year's experience shows that the Planter and the Negro comprehend the Revolution. The overseer, baving little interest in capital and less sympathy with labor, dishless the trouble of thinking and discredits the notion that anything new has courted. He is a relic of the past and adheres to its customs. His stubborn refusal to comprehend the condition of things occasioned most of the embarrassments of the past year. Where such incomprehenden is chronic, reduced wages, diminished rations, and the mild punishments imposed by the Army and Navy will do good.
